Manitoba big on giving

Winnipeg Foundation reports philanthropy 'alive and well' {page 2}

1 news

2011 proves a banner year for giving

The Winnipeg Foundation released its 2011 annual report on Thursday, and despite a fluctuating financial year, the organization says its 90th year in operation was a success.

"Even with the uncertain economic climate, Manitoba's tradition of philanthropy was alive and well in 2011," said Winnipeg Foundation board chair Richard Bracken at the release. "Contributions from the community amounted to $22 million — the most we've received since the market volatility began in 2008."

The contributions came from more than 6,000 gifts, more than double what came in last year. The foundation points to its 90-Hour Giving Challenge and Sharing Circles program as reasons for the increase.

The foundation also created a record 238 new endowment funds last year and granted $22.1 million to nearly 800 charitable organizations.

Richard Frost, CEO of the Winnipeg Foundation, also noted 2011 was a year of "fresh thinking and inspiring action" for the organization with the creation of a number of new programs and partnerships.

The Winnipeg Foundation's 2011 report is available at wpgfdn.org.

University of Manitoba dental students giving needy Winnipeggers free dental implants

SHANE GIBSON
WINNIPEG@METRONEWS.CA

Thirty-five needy Winnipeggers have something to smile about thanks to a partnership between the University of Manitoba and Siloam Mission's health centre.

Beginning on Thursday, the patients of Siloam's dental clinic began a 12-week procedure to receive complete dental implants — which would usually cost upwards of $10,000 each — at no cost.

"I'm ecstatic," said 63-year-old Bryon Ohrling, who is one of nine people who began the procedure this week.

"I've told many of my personal friends and the Lord about what I'm doing and they're envious."

The project, called the Niznick Overdenture Program, cost $500,000 and will see U of M dental students doing the procedures.

Ohrling, who has been off the street and living in his own place for about a year now, says he feels blessed to be participating in the program.

'It's almost like real teeth," he said.

"They told me when they're through with me I'm going to look like a million dollars."

The patients will take chartered buses provided at no cost by Tony's Academy Auto Service from Siloam Mission to the U of M's dental clinic on Bannatyne Avenue over the coming weeks to have the work done.

Another local truck driver killed

Ontario Provincial Police say a 45-year-old Winnipeg truck driver has died in a collision east of Kenora, Ont.

Police say Amir Mohammadi died Wednesday when his eastbound tractor-trailer collided with a westbound tractor-trailer.

The westbound transport had jackknifed across Highway 17 in the Dogtooth Lake area.

Another westbound tractor-trailer and an eastbound passenger vehicle were involved when they could not avoid the collision ahead of them.

Police say those vehicles were damaged, but the drivers were not injured.

The highway was closed from early Wednesday until Wednesday afternoon.

This is the second truck driver crash this week that saw a Winnipeg man killed. Dilbara Singh, 44, was driving one of the first big rigs to be involved in the pile-up just south of Merritt, B.C., on the Coquihalla Highway.

Singh had gotten out of his cab to speak with the other driver when a third truck plowed into the vehicles and killed him.

His body wasn't discovered until tow trucks arrived on the scene and began to pull apart the wreckage.

Vehicle stolen with child inside

A mother watched in horror as her vehicle was stolen on Wednesday with her young son in the backseat.

The 40-year-old woman had gone to a house in Tuxedo when she left her Acura MDX running and her child in the backseat.

While at the door, she turned to find a man in her vehicle who took off with it, police said.

Her son was found by a local resident unharmed.

Feds criticized over same-sex divorce issue

PM says he won't reopen debate after doubt cast on gay marriages

The Harper government is being accused of taking away same-sex rights by "stealth" in light of a surprise government stand that thousands of the non-resident gay and lesbian couples who came to Canada to exchange vows aren't legally married after all.

"The narrow interpretation of the law shows that the Harper government is trying to take away same-sex rights by stealth, and Canadians need to know that the advances we thought were secure are now under threat from the Harper neo-conservatives," Interim Liberal Leader Bob Rae told the Toronto Star Thursday.

"I think it's the radical right by stealth."
BOB RAE, INTERIM LIBERAL LEADER

Thousands of same-sex marriages since 2004 involving couples from outside Canada are in limbo as a result of a new position taken by the Conservative government.

In a nutshell, government lawyers are arguing in court that if same-sex couples could not be legally married in their home country, then their Canadian wedding is not valid.

Outspoken American author and journalist Dan Savage told his husband Thursday morning their marriage was no longer valid.

What did husband Terry Miller have to say about that?

"Nothing you can print," Savage told Metro in an interview from Seattle.

The couple were reacting to news reports that the Conservative government argued non-resident same-sex couples who married in Canada are not legally wed if same-sex marriages are unlawful in their home jurisdictions.

"We're not crawled up in the fetal position on the floor, we're getting up and we're going to fight," he said. "But we're pissed."

Savage said that the controversy has left marriages like his in "legal limbo."

"In Washington state, my husband and I are domestic partners because we're married in Canada," said Savage, who married Miller in Vancouver in 2005. "So if we're not married in Canada, we're not domestic partners here."

Savage said the news was "personally distressing" and "a big step backwards for Canada."

He said he and his husband will continue to fight to ensure the issue is debated until equality is granted to all same-sex couples.

Man found guilty of public nudity

Ontarian charged after going through drive-thrus naked Claimed nudity was legal form of expression

An Ontario court upheld Canada's public-nudity law Thursday, saying it doesn't infringe on freedom of expression or the right to practise naturism.

While nudism could be considered a protected form of expression under certain circumstances, "requiring people to wear some modicum of clothing when in public is a reasonable limit," Justice Jon-Jo A. Douglas told the court in delivering his judgment.

The court ruling comes after a constitutional challenge by a man charged in incidents involving public nudity in the Bracebridge area.

Brian Coldin was found guilty of partial nudity that offended public order for incidents at a park and two fast-food drive-thrus.

He was found not guilty in another incident that started on his own property, a clothing-optional resort he operates in the Bracebridge area north of Toronto.

At Coldin's trial, A&W and Tim Hortons workers testified he was nude when he came to the drive-thru windows and one worker said he pretended to reach for a wallet as if wearing pants.

PAOLA LORIGGIO/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Brian Coldin appears at court in Bracebridge, Ont., on Thursday.

Outside court Thursday, Coldin said he wasn't nude during that incident, but was wearing a towel.

In his ruling, Douglas found Coldin's actions expressed "not much more than his desire to be publicly nude."

"Attending at the pick-up of Tim Hortons, of A&W, without one's pants expresses little meaning about naturism to others, and it is certainly not perceived as having important meaning," he said.

One of Coldin's lawyers, Nader Hasan, told reporters he is disappointed by the decision and his client will consider whether to appeal.

In Canada, it is illegal to be nude in a public place, or while on private property but exposed to public view.

Coldin's lawyers have said the law was overly broad and should be struck down.

Douglas expressed concern Thursday about restrictions on nudity on private property, but declined to rule on that aspect of the law because it didn't apply to Coldin's case.

The Crown has asked the court to fine Coldin and place him on three years probation.

The defence in court Thursday argued that Coldin isn't dangerous and should be discharged. THE CANADIAN PRESS

U.S. slams marines in 'golden shower' video

Officials investigating video of men urinating on corpses

A video depicting four U.S. marines supposedly urinating on the corpses of Afghans has been condemned as "utterly deplorable" and "disrespectful."

It is "absolutely inconsistent with American values, with the standards of behaviour ... that the vast majority of marines hold themselves to," U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton said Thursday.

Clinton expressed "total dismay" over the video, which shows men dressed in combat gear standing over three bodies. It is unclear how the three died or whether they were Taliban or civilians.

"Anyone found to have participated or to have known about it ... must be held fully accountable."

A caption beneath the video, which was posted on YouTube, identifies the men as part of a scout sniper team assigned to 3rd Battalion, 2nd Marines, out of Camp Lejeune, N.C. The earthquake took place on January 2010 and, according to government officials, killed 316,000 people and displaced 1.5 million.

Housing prices to rise — slowly: Royal LePage

National average price for resale homes to rise 2.8%

The price of homes in Canada will continue rising this year, but the hottest markets in Toronto and Vancouver will grow much more slowly, predicts Canada's largest real estate broker.

Low mortgage rates will continue underpinning housing demand despite the weakening economy, said Royal LePage Real Estate Services in its annual housing outlook Thursday. "Interest rates are the primary driver behind activity levels in the marketplace," said Phil Soper, LePage president and CEO.

Experts believe interest rates will remain stable as the economy expands sluggishly, but eventually rates should rise with stronger growth. Royal LePage predicted the national average price for resale homes will rise 2.8 per cent by the end of the year.

In the forecast, the national average price for a standard two-storey home was $375,427 in the fourth quarter of 2011. In Vancouver, a standard two-storey home had an average price of $1.1 million, up 10.9 per cent from 2010, while Toronto saw a home gain of 4.2 per cent to $629,000.

FOUR MARINES THAT MISSED THE POTTY-TRAINING SEMINAR

THE METRO LIST

PAUL SULLIVAN
METRO

It's going to be a jam-packed year, as we have to get it all in before the world ends on Dec. 21.

So let's get started with this week's Metro List, the authoritative compendium of what's goin' on:

1 PR nightmare: Four U.S. marines are caught urinating on dead Taliban with extreme prejudice. Once again, the smartphone proves its worth as a weapon of mass embarrassment.

2 Awwww: Vancouver Aquarium's sea otter Milo, the world's cutest animal, succumbs to cancer at 12. A YouTube video of Milo and Nyac — also a sea otter — holding paws and floating on their backs, has racked up 17-million views. Nyac was the older woman; she died last year at 20. Who says otters are slippery? Milo was staunch.

3 Dining alfresco: Breast-feeding pix nixed on Facebook as sexually explicit, which leads us to wonder just how kinky they are at the world's foremost social network. Meanwhile, that "naturist" guy who kept going through the drive-thru at Timmy Ho's starkers had his sentence upheld. So what's the big deal? They're both cases of little boys having dinner.

4 World's most dangerous job: Iranian nuclear scientist No. 4 gets blown up this week. The Israelis: Who, Us? If this keeps up, Mahmoud Ahmadinejad will have to make his own damn atomic bombs.

5 Katy Perry: 5; Russell Brand: 0: She's hot enough to melt your popsicle, winning five People's Choice Awards. Ex-hubby Russell Brand? He loses the California Gurl. And the consolation prize of being referred to as the star of Arthur is no consolation at all.

6 Good news, bad news: In the same week, Toronto Maple Leafs defenceman Dion Phaneuf gets voted to the all-star squad and is rated the NHL's most overrated player. Somebody's wrong.

7 HBD: Kate Middleton, er, the Duchess of Somewhere, turns 30. You think that's something? Betty White turns 90 this week, and she's still funny. Kate Middleton has never — to our knowledge — been funny. Although she does smile a lot.

8 Show us the file: The RCMP spied on Bob Rae when he was on the University of Toronto student council. Now that he's Liberal leader, they don't care … as he's a threat to no one.

9 Bieber watch: He's going back into the studio to work on his next album. Will his voice crack before he's finished?

Dutch storms create wave of orphaned seal pups

A volunteer feeds a seal a herring at the Pieterburen seal creche, north of the town of Groningen, in northern Netherlands on Thursday.

Storms that have lashed the Dutch coast this year have created a wave of orphaned baby seals, some so young their umbilical cords are still attached, wrenched from their mothers and washed up on beaches and dikes. An existing Pieterburen seal rehabilitation and research center (SRRC) near the northern city of Groningen has been so inundated with pups and older seals in recent weeks it has erected a temporary tent to house them while they are nurtured back to health before being returned to the wild.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

'Screamers'

- American volunteer Torrey Utne said Thursday that in the last 10 days, more than 100 seals have been brought to the centre for treatment and it now houses some 350 of the marine mammals.
- Many of them are young pups known as "screamers" for their high-pitched whining.

"Some of the seals are really friendly. ... They will come right up to you and sniff you because they know you are the one bringing fish."

HANDOUT

▶ Mark Wahlberg easily straddles the world of family man and tough guy in Contraband.

Old plot, new twist

The 'one last heist' genre gets the grit of Mark Wahlberg in Contraband

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE & MARK BRESLIN

Richard: Mark, Maybe January isn't a dumping ground for awful movies anymore. Used to be that only the dregs came out after Christmas, but Contraband is actually a pretty good thriller. It's not brilliant, but succeeds mainly because Wahlberg can play the family man, as he does in the first part of the movie, and then switch gears to have believable tough-guy swagger.

Mark: Well, the plot — One! Last! Heist! is as old as Dick Clark's toupee. But the movie is all in the details — the gritty port milieu, the dirty hold of the cargo boat, the cheap 'n'sleazy Panamanian dives; this flick is the antidote to Miami Vice — there's zero glamour in this smuggling game. As far as Wahlberg goes, I found him totally believable and it's the best thing he's done in a while. But what's up with Ben Foster? Does he have to be a creep in every movie he's in?

RC: Foster is a fine but typecast actor. He really needs to break away from the deadbeat kind of characters he's been playing lately. More work like his heartrending performance in The Messenger please, and less like paint-by-number creepy guys he plays in movies like this and The Mechanic.

MB: And I was all excited to see Kate Beckinsale out of Vampirella drag — and then they gave her nothing to do; the worst wifey part in recent memory. The other supporting roles weren't all that great, either, although Giovanni Ribisi does make a swell bad guy, and I'll always have a soft spot for JK Simmons after his role in Oz. I like seeing him in anything.

RC: With the way Ribisi chews the scenery here and his work in The Rum Diary he's proving himself to be the hungriest actor in Hollywood next to Nic Cage. He was fun. Beckinsale, not so much. Why cast her and then simply make her the damsel in distress? You'd think after kicking werewolf butt in four Underworld movies she'd be able to defend herself by now. Unfortunately the supporting characters are less interesting than the movie as a whole.

MB: It's not really an 'actor's movie,' is it? But the mechanics of the heist work, as well as the action sequences, and that's why it's worth watching. Oh, and a fabulous art joke, which seems out of whack with the rest of the film, but is a hoot nevertheless.

Beat up by a girl

Channing Tatum meets his match in martial arts expert Gina Carano They square off in Haywire

SASHA PERL-RAVER
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

Channing Tatum knows how to pick a fight. Last year, he quite vocally went on the record admitting he wasn't interested in watching or starring opposite a female action hero until Hollywood unearthed a woman who was truly intimidating.

"I've always wanted someone that I would be afraid to fight. And they found one," he grins, sitting in a suite at the Four Seasons in Beverly Hills where he's promoting his latest film, Haywire, a Bourne-esque action thriller about a covert operative caught in a deadly double cross that's headlined by female mixed martial arts star Gina Carano. "Isn't she just the most amazing little thing ever?" Tatum gushes. "I mean, she's diesel, but she's just got the best heart and she's so good in this movie."

Carano, best known for her fight appearances and role as Crush on American Gladiators, was approached by Haywire director Steven Soderbergh to do an action movie, though he did caution her it would be "interesting" to see who signed opposite on for roles that demanded grown men get their butts kicked by a girl … who also happens to be a trained Muy Thai fighter.

"She's a real fighter, she can beat up most dudes," Tatum chuckles.

Her other co-stars are equally enthusiastic: "Oh, I got my butt kicked sideways by her and I loved every minute of it," Ewan McGregor offers. "It never crossed my mind for a minute not to do the movie for some macho reason."

Carano, who describes herself as "a tomboy who also loved Pride and Prejudice," says she feels incredibly lucky to have been given the chance to do any movie, let alone the lead in a Soderbergh project.

"I don't consider myself what people are necessarily looking for," she says, surprisingly sheepish for someone who knows her way around a submission choke-out.

"So I knew if I was going to get this opportunity, it was going to have to come to me. And it did."

Sculpting her acting chops

- Gina Carano recalls her first day of work, which had her going toe-to-toe with one of 2011's breakout stars, Michael Fassbender. "At that point, I had only read lines with an acting coach for maybe three days," she cringes. "I showed up and Michael said, 'You want to run lines?' And I said, 'Please.' It was the first time I'd run lines with an actor. He put some whiskey down in front of me and said, 'OK, let's do this.'"

Vincent van Gogh goes to school

A Canada wide school project with great opportunities

Kingdom of the Netherlands | Kingdom of the Netherlands | Kingdom of the Netherlands | Kingdom of the Netherlands | Kingdom of the Net

Ever heard of a guy called Vincent van Gogh? The famous Dutch artist who was born more than 150 years ago in the Netherlands and who became known as an innovator in the art world. If you have heard of him, did you ever wonder how it would be to follow in his footsteps and use your own creativity just as he did? The Netherlands Embassy and its network in Canada invite teachers and students to participate in the 'Vincent van Gogh goes to school' project, which will run from February – June 2012. The project is designed for children between the ages of 6 and 16 years old. Both elementary and high schools can join.

The school project coincides with Vincent's visit to Canada in the spring of 2012: the National Gallery of Canada, located in the capital Ottawa, will host 'Van Gogh: Up Close' from May 25 – September 3 (2012). It will be the first major Canadian exhibition of works by the famous Dutch artist for more than 25 years.

Useful teacher's kit
Join us right now and we will send a teacher's kit including the 'See and Do Children's Book' from Cecile de Bie and Martijn Leenen, a dvd about the life of 'Vincent van Gogh' to use in a class room setting. The teacher's kit will be distributed on a first come first served principle; last entries no later than January 17, 2012.

Learn, explore and experience
- Learn together with schools in the Netherlands that are participating in this project and would like to connect with schools in Canada
- Explore possibilities of the 'Vincent van Gogh goes to school' project in your own class: it is not just about art per se. Van Gogh can be a history project, a biology project or even a language class.
- Experience the Netherlands and discover interesting facts about the Dutch, their country and the friendship with Canada

Make – with your classmates and with the support of your teacher – an awesome painting of sunflowers; write a letter to Vincent; or, how about using your creativity to produce a movie, a rap, a comic, a poster, a board game or a picture! Increase your chances to win by uploading a video, a song, or a picture to the specially designed fvincentincanada Facebook page from the Netherlands Embassy. Students can also sign up individually, and will be organized in the appropriate age category: The Sun Flowers – age group 6 – 10; The Irises – age group 10 – 13 and The Wild Roses – age group 13 – 16.

Are you in?

The Iron Lady
Genre: Drama
Director: Phyllida Lloyd
Stars: Meryl Streep, Jim Broadbent, Richard E. Grant

The film begins in the present with Margaret Thatcher, the longest serving British Prime Minister of the 20th Century, diminished by age. She daydreams conversations with her late husband and reflects on the past, which leads us into the "greatest hits" biographical format that makes up most of the movie.

It's all rather standard, elevated by a performance that once again displays what a great technician Meryl Streep is. She embodies Thatcher, from the flamboyant hair to the ever-present pearls although the real heavy lifting is done in the "lion in winter" scenes. It's there the movie goes beyond the showy impersonation and becomes an emotional, well rounded portrait.

● RICHARD CROUSE

A Dangerous Method
Genre: Drama
Director: David Cronenberg
Stars: Michael Fassbender, Keira Knightley, Viggo Mortensen
●●●½

Director David Cronenberg has rarely been this simply elegant. The story of two pioneering figures of psychoanalysis, Carl Jung (Michael Fassbender) and Sigmund Freud (Viggo Mortensen), who have a falling out over an intelligent but troubled patient, Sabina Spielrein (Keira Knightley), is sophisticated and stylish. Shot compositions and camerawork are kept simple so as not to distract from the star of the show — the dialogue. As you might imagine for a drama about therapists, there is a great deal of talk. A Dangerous Method won't be for everyone. The combo of love story and birth of modern analysis is an odd mix, but in its introspection is a fascinating glimpse into the character's lives and minds.

● RICHARD CROUSE

Joyful Noise
Genre: Comedy/Musical
Director: Todd Graff
Stars: Queen Latifah, Dolly Parton, Keke Palmer

You'd have to be pretty hard hearted not to get a charge out of the outsized enthusiasm of Joyful Noise.

OK, the script is overloaded; it's unashamedly cornpone and "squeaky clean" is an understatement. It concerns a local church choir in a vaguely unsettlingly small Georgia town where everyone knows your business.

And sadly, Dolly Parton may have passed the surgical tipping point.

However, the third act gospel competition is a glorious bolt of musical lightning that all but obliterates these niggling problems.

Bracing for the return

Golden Globe nominees say they're ready, even eager, for the comic wrath of host Ricky Gervais

When Golden Globes host Ricky Gervais took sharp swipes at Mel Gibson, Bruce Willis, Robert Downey, Jr. and the Hollywood Foreign Press Association at last year's ceremony, some criticized the comedian for going too far.

Downey described the vibe as "hugely mean-spirited, with mildly sinister undertones."

With Gervais back for his third turn as Globes host on Sunday, nominees are already preparing themselves for the British funnyman's pointed jabs.

"I'll probably get the piss taken out of me, but it's fine with me," said Elton John, nominated for his song from Gnomeo & Juliet. "I'm British. I can take it."

Johnny Galecki, who is up for his first Golden Globe for his work on TV's The Big Bang Theory, said that when he got word he was nominated, "one of my first five thoughts was, 'Oh Christ, Gervais is going to make fun of me.'"

But the actor isn't really worried.

"I'll be flattered by it," said the 5-foot 5-inch Galecki. "I'm looking forward to it. I hope he doesn't just zero in on the height. That's just easy pickings."

▶ Will Ricky Gervais have them cheering or jeering at this year's award ceremony?

Damian Lewis, nominated for his work on the TV series Homeland, said he might also be an easy target for Gervais.

"If he's got a thing about redheads, I'm a sitting duck," Lewis said.

Glee and American Horror Story executive producer Ryan Murphy is excited about Gervais' return and the spice he brings to the three-hour telecast.

"It's always good with the shows to have an unpredictable element to them, and he certainly is that," Murphy said. "He's very funny and very smart and I think he will make nominees even more nervous than they already are, which is kind of funny."

Seth Rogen, who produced and starred in best picture nominee 50/50, is also looking forward to Gervais' return. He even went online to check out what the comedian said last year.

"It was the first time in a long time I'd gone on YouTube and watched something an awards show said," Rogen said.

Supporting actor nominee Christopher Plummer said he appreciates Gervais' irreverence.

"I think finally everybody's come to that same conclusion: That that's him, he doesn't mean it, but he's very funny," Plummer said.

Jean Dujardin, nominated for his starring role in the silent film The Artist (which is also up for best picture and is the night's leading nominee with six bids), said it would be an honour if Gervais even mentioned him.

But there's a caveat, the actor said: "If he mocks me, he has to do it silently, without any words."

The 69th annual Golden Globe Awards will be presented Sunday at the Beverly Hilton Hotel and broadcast live on NBC.

Ben's big 3

Ben Mulroney's three favourite Golden Globes red carpet moments.

1 "At a certain point during the red carpets, you're told to stop doing interviews so they can get everyone inside for the show. Last year, as we were wrapping up, Vancouver-raised Cory Monteith spotted our ETALK logo and ran over to chat with us anyway. A publicist spotted us, and kept trying to shut the interview down until Cory asked her to please calm down and let him talk. He broke the rules because he didn't want to miss the opportunity to say hi to Canada."

2 "I'd always wanted to talk to Emma Stone, and last year I got my chance. She came on the carpet with her platinum blonde hair because for her Spider-Man role, and was absolutely stunning. It was refreshing to talk to someone whose star was rising, but was still so down to earth. She was fun, confident, well-spoken and didn't take herself too seriously. Through her movies, you feel like you get a sense of who she is, and you do – there's no pretence with her. You definitely won't see Emma pulling a Lindsay Lohan."

3 "ETALK is lucky to have a platform position at the Golden Globes, so we're able to talk to a whole cast if the opportunity arises, and last year it did. The entire cast of The Walking Dead came onto our platform and I literally dropped to my knees and bowed to their greatness. The show is built for TV and movie fans, with an amazing cast. They're all great stars who may not be at the Oscars, but their level of accomplishment is on par with anyone nominated for an Academy Award. I was honoured to have the chance to talk to them."

A beastly outing

Chris Alexander takes his sons to Beauty and the Beast 3D ◗ The boys bond over chick-flick bashing

CHRIS ALEXANDER

HANDOUT

▶ The 1992 Oscar-nominated Beauty and the Beast gets the 3D treatment this weekend.

Today, the house the mouse built digs up another masterwork, in 3D: 1992's sumptuous, Oscar-nominated Beauty and the Beast. For this review, I opted to not only bring my four-and-a-half year old son Jack to critique, but also another member of my film-reared brood, three-year-old Elliot, a young man who adores motion pictures … but abhors wearing 3D glasses.

Now that's as good a place to start as any.

Beauty is just that, a ravishing classic fairy tale, with every single hand drawn frame a work of warm art. So why then, put it in 3D? The answer is, of course, to compete in today's screen leaping obsessed marketplace. Beauty is a dark affair, however, and much of the gimmick is ineffective. And in Elliot's case, annoying, as the lad kept removing his specs, refusing my many attempts to put them back on. No matter. He still was gripped by the picture. Both boys were. It's tight, colourful, lively, operatic and brisk. And although the new 3D sheen lacks the punch it promises, it's still exciting to see Beauty and the Beast return to screens.

It also for me, marks a milestone in Jack's cinematic pallet in the form of his newly minted disdain for chick flicks.

"I loved that movie," he remarked as the credits rolled. "But I hate girls in dresses that kiss."

Love don't cost a thing, just $40,000 a month

J-Lo paying new boyfriend $10,000 a week to date her

THE WORD

DOROTHY ROBINSON
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

It pays to be Jennifer Lopez's boy toy.

Star magazine reports that Lopez is paying her former back-up dancer Casper Smart $10,000 a week so he can pretend like he has the funds to date her high-profile self (it's like crazy Britney Spears all over again).

A source tells the mag, "She hated having to whip out her credit card every time they go to dinner. Jen figured it's easier to give Casper a weekly stipend, and she thought $10,000 was a nice round number. Jen doesn't want to go over the top, showering Casper with too much, but she also wants him to up his game. Jen is hoping Casper won't think twice about buying presents for her kids or whisking her off for a surprise weekend getaway."

Ha. No.

$40,000 a month as payment to be your boyfriend isn't "over the top" at all!

That's totally normal and sane behaviour! From the block, indeed.

No wonder she's shilling so hard for Fiat — she has a boyfriend to support.

People still love Perry

Her marriage to Russell Brand may be over, but at least Katy Perry has her fans to turn to.

The singer won big at the People's Choice Awards this week, pulling in five awards: favourite female artist, tour headliner and for song of the year for ET with Kanye West, music video for Last Friday Night and TV guest star for How I Met Your Mother, according to People magazine.

There was a significant lack of acceptance speeches at the awards show, though, as Perry decided earlier in the week not to attend the ceremony.

Wine sipping on a budget

A New Year brings many things. None of which are more thrilling than those post-holiday bills dropped off by your friendly postman.

While coming to grips with how much you spent making your Christmas merry may be enough to drive you to drink, finding a bottle of something decent you can pay for with the change found between your couch cushions may seem unlikely.

Though larger format sizes offer good value, many are blended, non-vintage wines with European sounding names and lackluster taste. That makes a drinkable, inexpensive vintage wine in a 1,500 millilitre bottle one of the Holy Grails of the booze business.

Low labour costs and a predictable climate make those from Chile consistent and quaffable. The 2010 Frontera Cabernet Sauvignon Merlot (1,500 ml, $14.95 - $20.49) — made by mega producer Concha y Toro — is a light mix of bright acidity, super soft tannins and fresh berry flavours.

Try this red with tomato-based pasta sauces and grilled meats. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS CANADA. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

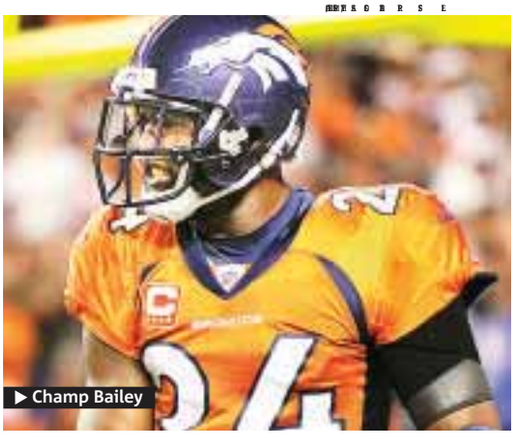
Bailey vs. Brady six years later

Underdog Broncos look to repeat magic of 2006 and once again end heavily favoured Patriots' playoff hopes

MATT SLOCUM/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

▶ Tom Brady



▶ Champ Bailey

The last time the Broncos and New England Patriots met in the playoffs, Champ Bailey returned an interception 100 yards, sparking a big Denver win and handing Tom Brady his first postseason defeat after 10 wins and three titles.

Six years later, they meet again on Saturday, both men longer in the tooth but just as transcendent.

At age 33, Bailey has helped the Broncos (9-8) reach the playoffs for the first time in six seasons.

"He's really a playmaker for them," Brady said. "He's a great leader. He's everything you look for in a football player."

That's pretty much what Bailey said about Brady.

"He's smart, accurate, he has all the tools," Bailey said. "He's tough, confident. Everything you want in a player."

At age 34, Brady threw 39 touchdown passes, the second-best total of his great career, and led the Pats (13-3) to the top of the AFC by winning his last eight starts, including a blowout at Denver on Dec. 18.

The heavily favoured Patriots are 8-2 in home playoff games under Brady, whose 14-5 post-season record is tied with Terry Bradshaw for the best mark in league history.

The Broncos captain readily acknowledges he doesn't particularly enjoy facing Brady.

"It's more frustrating when you're out there because he's so good. He's one of the best ever," Bailey said. "I think a lot of people want to find out who's going to be the next guy, but he always reminds everybody he's still the best."

Brady said he's not thrilled to see Bailey again, either.

"I wish I could have him on our team and not play against him. I'm tired of playing against him," Brady said. "He definitely challenges us.

That's what happened Jan. 14, 2006, when Bailey made the play that ended New England's dominating dynasty along with Denver's years of playoff misery.
